PROGRAM : MEETING ON WEDNESDAY, April 22, 2009

President Prakash Pisipati introduced VP John Cuccia who presented today's speaker, Ronald Dilbert of "Single Parent Power." His organization seeks to help single parents reconnect and communicate with their parents. The group has corporate sponsors because single parents sometimes take their problems to work with them where it can affect their job performance. Mr. Dilbert emphasized that failure to listen closely to our children and other family members causes a lot of our problems. He had the Rotarians split up into teams of two and practice telling each other things and seeing how much could be repeated back. It made the Rotarians realize the importance of listening very closely when others speak. Only a small part of communication is verbal. Tone of voice, facial expression and body language play big roles in communicating. By listening to people, you build relationships, uplift peoples' spirits and aid people in solving their problems. Kevin Bagnasco responded for the Rotary and praised the speaker's important communication techniques.
